the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are aged 65 and over has increased by 1.5 million, and the number of people aged 75 and over has increased by 1.1 million (Office for National Statistics 1999).

There is a growing awareness of the need to address the needs of older people in the community. The Department of Health (1999) has published a strategy for older people, which sets out the government's commitment to improve the lives of older people. The strategy is based on the principle that older people should be able to live independently, safely and comfortably in their own homes, and to participate in the community. The strategy also sets out the government's commitment to improve the health and social care services available to older people.
